*Determining Eligibility for Need-Based Aid

The Office of Student Financial Aid and Scholarship Services established a budget based on projections of what it will cost you to attend New Mexico State University for a year. Your resources will be subtracted from your budget. The amount of money that is not covered by your own resources is your need, sometimes referred to as your eligibility. In other words,

$$\text{BUDGET} - \text{RESOURCES} = \text{ELIGIBILITY (NEED)}$$

Many factors go into figuring a student's resources when determining eligibility. Some elements in the calculation are the student's savings, wage earnings and other sources of support (such as scholarships and veteran's benefits), the income and assets of the student's family, the number of family members and the number who are currently in college.

Many students receive a combination of different types of aid rather than just one kind. You may be given work-study, grant and loan money for the same year. If you qualify for multiple types of aid, your financial aid advisor at NMSU will assemble an aid package.

Fall Semester 2017 American Indian Program First Time Scholarship – Supplement Application Information Sheet

What does “demonstrated need” mean?

Demonstrated need is defined by one’s Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) financial need analysis. As the American Indian Program (AIP) First Time Scholarship is a “Need Based” scholarship, The AIP uses the same definition of need.

Estimated Family Contribution (EFC):

Your EFC is an estimate of the amount of money that the government expects your family to contribute to your education expenses. Your EFC is taken into consideration to determine your “need.”

Forms of financial aid that are awarded as resources to cover your cost to attend NMSU:

Pell Grant, SEOG Grant, Lottery Scholarship, Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans are all forms of financial aid.

As the AIP First Time Scholarship is a supplemental need based scholarship, students who apply for the scholarship and have no “demonstrated need” and are seeking extra money will not be awarded a scholarship.

Students that have not submitted a FAFSA and are unable to demonstrate their financial need will be ineligible for the AIP First Time Scholarship.

Students who have a negative need will not be awarded a scholarship as you will be in an “over award” status and you will likely have to repay funds to the Financial Aid Office.

Students who have exhausted their Federal Financial Aid due to falling below the course completion rate are ineligible to receive the AIP First Time Scholarship.
